10 Things You Should Never Say in a Job Interview!

(And What to Say Instead)

J.S

1

When they ask:
“Can you tell me about your experience?”

Don’t say:

✗ “I have no experience.”

Instead, say:

✓ “I’m new to this field, but I’ve been learning [tool/skill] and I’m excited to apply it in a real-world context.”

2

When they ask:
“What do you know about our company?”

Don’t say:

✗ “What does your company do?”

Instead, say:

✓ “I looked into your work in [industry] and was impressed by your recent [project/initiative]. I’d love to contribute.”

3

When they ask:
“Why should we hire you?”

Don’t say:

✗ “Because I really need this job.”

Instead, say:

✓ “This role matches my skills in [XYZ] and my long-term goals. I’m confident I can make a meaningful impact.”

4

When they ask:
“Why are you leaving your current role?”

Don’t say:

✗ “Because I hate my job.”

Instead, say:

✓ “I’ve grown a lot in my current role, but I’m ready for new challenges in a more growth-focused team.”

5

When they ask:
“What’s your biggest weakness?”

Don’t say:

✗ “I’m a perfectionist.”

Instead, say:

✓ “I used to take on too much myself, but I’ve learned to ask for help and collaborate more effectively.”

6

When they ask:
“Why do you want this job?”

Don’t say:

✗ “Because of the salary.”

Instead, say:

✓ “This role excites me because it fits my skills and values. I’ve heard great things about your team culture.”

7

When they ask:
“Do you have any questions for us?”

Don’t say:

“No, you covered everything.”

Instead, say:

- “What does success look like in the first 90 days?”
- “Can you tell me about the team?”
- “What’s the team’s biggest current challenge?”

8

When they ask:

“Are you familiar with [new task]?”

Don’t say:

“I’m not sure I can do that.”

Instead, say:

“I didn’t have the chance yet, but I’m a fast learner and have already started exploring it independently.”

9

When they ask:

“What are you looking for in your next role?”

Don’t say:

✗ “Something stable.”

Instead, say:

✓ “A place where I can keep growing, contribute to meaningful work, and be challenged.”

10

When they ask:

“How would your colleagues describe your work style?”

Don’t say:

“I don’t really know. I just get things done.”

Instead, say:

“They’d say I’m reliable, detail-oriented, and someone who takes initiative. I focus on collaboration and follow through on my commitments.”

The words you choose reflect your mindset.
